

Linux Users' Group of Davis

presents

Open-Source Open Mic Night

A Grown-up Show and Tell

17th December, Davis Public Library

We are proud to announce our Open Source Computing “Show and Tell” event, an informal open night to talk about and demonstrate programs, computer projects or tricks and tips!

Feel free to bring something to show or tell for ten minutes, from a Raspberry Pi project to tools or utilities that you find handy. Everyone is welcome to join in the fun, whether you're a hobbyist, coder, enthusiast or sysadmin!

The meeting is at 7pm, Monday 17th December in the Davis Library's Conference Room (14th Street, Davis). It's free to attend, and we'd love to meet you to share some of the things that make us happy and productive.

What is LUGOD?

We advocate for and support free, open-source software solutions, including the Linux operating system. We have two monthly meetings; a social meeting at 7pm on the first Tuesday of the month, and a general meeting (a presentation, demo or discussion of a topic) each third Monday. Full details are listed on our website.

<https://lugod.org>

a 501(c)(7) not-for-profit computer club
supporting open-source since December 1998

